

Abstract

A sensor device (1) for use in a human or animal comprises a probe within which there is located a sensor (3, 4) for an analyte. For providing improved strength, the sensor device comprises a mesh structure (6) enveloping at least a portion of the probe.